Festival of Politics

Expert panel to discuss philanthropy in schools

GTCScotland to host a National Panel at the Festival of Politics on the evening of 18th August 2010.

For the first time we are staging a debate at Holyrood on the topic of compassion in education; debating how philanthropy and compassion can work in harmony and how education is central to creating good citizens aware of the needs of others.

Our Chief Executive Anthony Finn will be joined by:

- Ewan McVicar

One of Scotland's foremost singer songwriters and storytellers.

- Isabelle Boyd CBE

Head Teacher of Cardinal Newman High School

- Jack McConnell

Former First Minister

- Mike Stevenson

Thinktastic (chair for the evening)

- Baroness Warwick

Chair of VSO in the UK (TBC)

Tickets are very limited so please register your interest by emailing Alison.McWilliams@gtcs.org.uk

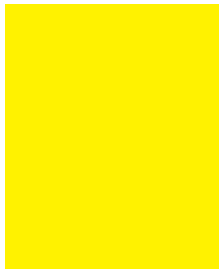

For more information on the Festival of Politics go to www.festivalofpolitics.org.uk The brochure will be launched in July but you can look at the exciting events from 2009 as you wait for the launch date!

Glow developments

Glowing support for learning and teaching

A wide range of resources are now available to help practitioners use Glow to enhance learning and teaching.

The Glow Cookbooks show how Glow is being used by classroom practitioners and how it is supporting the implementation of Curriculum for Excellence.

The cookbooks contain the ingredients:

- the Glow tools used
- some advice on method
- a quick 'how to' video, and
- the end product, a description of the impact from the teacher or pupils.

They can be used to find how to use Glow in a vast range of ways and for different purposes, including how to:

- use Glow for innovative and successful transitions

- use Glow Meet to support conversational French
- create a Worry Forum
- embed video as a stimulus for writing
- enhance staff communication.

Glow Cookbooks can be accessed via the Glow national site, Help link or linking directly to glowhelp.me/cookbooks or using a Google search for Glow Cookbooks
